

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

A Plea for Peace

Jim Meskimen · Wednesday, May 11th, 2016

I created this poem in response to all the combative chatter that has been all over social media and in the news lately. I wrote it in between takes on a commercial shoot in LA that I was involved in, which helped pass the time and helped me wind down from all the media provocation that had me so agitated.

I wrote it in iambic pentameter to elevate the discourse, and which, as an exercise, is calming, like knitting. What we want peace to be.

Afterwards I realized it would be effective to make one of my impressions videos out of it, and assigned different celebrities to say particular lines. I recorded the voices in my home studio, created the artwork and had my friend Geoff Levin compose some simple music. I hope people find something to relate to in it.

[embedvideo id="MnInxVdhX-A" website="youtube"]

Top image: Prayer flags, courtesy Wikimedia.

This entry was posted on Wednesday, May 11th, 2016 at 12:19 pm and is filed under TV, Poetry. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.