

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Amanda Newell: Two Poems

Amanda Newell · Wednesday, November 6th, 2019

Permanent Girl

She's fifty now tired of riding the blue anchor etched into his left bicep tired of being his USNA pinup girl always fighting gravity bubbled tits & ass sagging on the freckled folds of his skin. The things she's seen!
 The pool halls! Sundays at Charles Town the Hollywood Casino his favorite.
 Her legs cramp she's got varicose veins numb fingers & toes (from clinging so long to the shank) & furthermore doesn't like what she sees in the mirror her face a gauzy blur the frayed ends of her mermaid hair turning gray.
 Long threads of silver have begun to sprout from her crotch they make her itch.
 She bleeds sometimes leaves flakes of herself on his pillow. He rests his head on her when he sleeps & though she tries to tell him to moisturize her lips are perennially puckered still she's his permanent girl! No one has lasted as long as she. She knows what he likes in bed what positions she's been there seen the dog-eared pages of The Complete Guide to Sex he keeps on his dresser his drawer of vibrating blinking cocks but lately she wonders what will happen when he dies whether they'll burn together be buried together in which case she on his arm will outlive him (better to wish for the laser complete removal) & by how many years who can say

*

Black Angus

because he broke his knee in the move from Shadow Lake where lurked the ex-wife the ex-fiancée his failures his life auctioned off backhoe to coffee pot

I helped feed the cows put my paddock boots on told him I had some horses once Patty Penny Ruffles Rick I can muck the shit out of any stall plus large animals don't scare me so what's the bull's name anyway

I'm a farmer he said I don't give names how 'bout Big Hairy Motherfucker the bull was limping over to sniff number ten's ass another day he said and she'll be in look how wet she is those pink winking folds but if he can't stand on his haunches by then his days here are numbered which is what I keep thinking about my love who has to stand these days to get the fucking going too it's like jump starting an old car you never know if it will go or for how long but we love like this roughly messily always hungrily we do it any way we can

(Author photo by Jill Marie Boudoir)

This entry was posted on Wednesday, November 6th, 2019 at 6:04 pm and is filed under Poetry.
You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can skip to the end and leave a response. Pinging is currently not allowed.