

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Animals in Healthcare

Rob Lang · Wednesday, June 14th, 2017

With the way things are going, American humans need to be budget-minded when it comes to paying for healthcare. One way to cut costs is by employing animals. They don't ask for much money, and there are no laws in place that force us to pay them.

Let this be a lesson. Brown treecreepers only climb up trees as they look for food. Nuthatches, however, go in any direction they please. So don't expect a thorough examination from a treecreeper dermatologist.

Some of them are even good with the kids!

At least the chimp is relaxed.

[alert type=alert-white]Please consider making a tax-deductible donation now so we can keep publishing strong creative voices.[/alert]

This entry was posted on Wednesday, June 14th, 2017 at 6:43 pm and is filed under Comics. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can skip to the end and leave a response. Pinging is currently not allowed.