

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Arts District Welcomes A Shop Called Quest

Cultural Daily · Monday, September 5th, 2016

Self-described as “as ambassador for the visual arts,” A Shop Called Quest has opened its first Los Angeles outpost in the DTLA Arts District. Here you’ll find a vast and well-curated collection of new and classic comics, collectables, and related merchandise — and the most helpful and friendly staff of any comics store in town.

We’re happy to see them here, and look forward to joining their in-store events.

Information here.

A Shop Called Quest is in One Santa Fe, 300 S. Santa Fe Avenue, Los Angeles, 90013.

Above: Store manager Ray Duran welcomes everyone. Photo by Adam Leipzig.

[alert type=alert-white]Please consider making a tax-deductible donation now so we can keep publishing strong creative voices.[/alert]

This entry was posted on Monday, September 5th, 2016 at 7:26 pm and is filed under Fiction, Visual Art

You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.