Live This Week

Coming home

Launching an expanded 2023-2024 season, the contemporary company BODYTRAFFIC returns to this dance-friendly venue. Artistic director Tina F. Berkett and this company of technically versatile dancers know how to wow and satisfy an audience. That combination of skills has attracted name dancemakers to create on the company, this time with two world premieres, Patria Y Vida from Joan Rodriguez with live music and Fernando Hernando Magadan's new work to Ravel's Bolero. Not to be missed are Trey McIntyre's Blue Until June set to Etta James songs and Micaela Taylor's Snap with music by SHOCKEY and James Brown. The Wallis, 9390 N. Santa Monica Blvd., Beverly Hills; Fri-Sat., Oct. 6-7, 7:30 pm, $49-$79. The Wallis.

How he grew up

Once the prodigy tap dance kid, Savion Glover has grown into a master of the percussive art. In his latest, SoUNDz' SaCRoSaNCt, Glover pays tribute to Gregory Hines, another tap legend and one of his mentors. With live music from a jazz combo, the show does homage to Glover's tap lineage. Soraya, Cal State University Northridge, 18111 Nordhoff St., Northridge; Sat., Oct. 7, 8 pm, $39-$109. The Soraya.

The hour-long duet from interdisciplinary artist Ann Carlson employs humor and a touch of Samuel Beckett to consider “elegance in the face of extinction.” UCLA Nimoy Theater, 1262 Westwood Blvd., Westwood; Sat.-Sun., Oct. 7-8, 8 pm, $32.
