

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Chloe Yelena Miller: Four Poems

Chloe Yelena · Monday, June 14th, 2021

English Vocabulary: Eclipse

They pass through each other's shadows.

Mothers gesture with ringed fingers,
share sorrow in a stored language of muscle memory:

when we held our infants what did and did not come after.

That precious sorrow, visible in a bent arm, downturned face.

The pause. The passing.

The pause.

*

To Do or After

Eat sushi, soft and blue cheeses, ocean bottom feeders, rare beef.

Drink coffee, tea, wine, beer, after dinner drinks.

Swallow decongestants, sleeping pills.

Sit for a pedicure. Let her rub your ankle.

In yoga class, jump, twist, invert your body.

At home, trip over the coffee table's outstretched leg. Land on your stomach. Don't break your fall.

*

Scallion

Bulb & shoots in water.
Change the water, rinse the roots.

Slice just enough garnish. Leave the rest.

When leaves wilt,
spill out the water, toss the plant.
Start over.

Question of Love

Week 5

A young woman, I loved quickly again
after each inevitable end.

You, I must love you later.

You, cradled
behind my pelvic bone.

I can't admit this love.

Yet.

Viable by Chloe Yelena Miller

Photo credit: Hans Noel

This entry was posted on Monday, June 14th, 2021 at 9:44 am and is filed under Poetry. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.