Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Filmaker Ramin NaimiBabe's and Ricky's A Doc of LA's Blues

Adam · Thursday, January 3rd, 2013

Babe’s and Ricky’s Inn was a blues club for the ages. Located in South Central LA and run by Laura Mae Gross for 50 years, until her recent death, Babe’s and Ricky’s hosted the greatest blues artists in the world.

Filmmaker Ramin Naimi made his full-length documentary during Babe’s and Ricky’s final days; in it, he chronicles personal stories and captures stunning live blues performances. The film has been well-reviewed, but does not have distribution, so Ramin and his team are doing what all artist-entrepreneurs must do — they’re planning to tackle distribution themselves.

They have launched an indiegogo campaign to raise at least $15,000 by February 25, 2013. Your contribution will pay for initial release of the film, which will be accompanied by live blue performances!

Watch the promo video below, then go to their indiegogo page and give the Blues some Green.

This entry was posted on Thursday, January 3rd, 2013 at 2:43 am and is filed under Film
You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments (RSS) feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.