Dancing All By Themselves

Ann Haskins · Wednesday, August 30th, 2017

Asian street dance in Hollywood, salsa dance downtown, Mexican folkloric dance in Cahuenga Pass, a dance fest opens in Laguna beach, plus solo dance and world dance in Santa Monica.

5. Salsa on over

Summer is winding down and the last adventure offered by Dance Downtown LA is devoted to salsa. Watch the free show or join in (there's a beginner lesson at each event before the free dance begins). Grand Park, 200 N. Grand Ave., downtown; Fri., Sept. 1, 7 p.m., free. <http://musiccenter.org/dancedtla>

2. Dancin' from Asia

Dance styles and dancers from all over Asia are displayed in DANCE DANCE L'ASIA. Presented by the Japan Foundation Los Angeles, the free concert showcases Ray Basa (Philippines), Culture Shock L.A. (Korea), Good Time (Thai), WizStars (Japan) and Hilty & Bosch (Japan). Hip hop and street dance get a definite emphasis and as part of the show, Hilty & Bosch will conduct a workshop on their distinctive urban dance style. Full details, video samples and reservations at <https://www.jflalc.org/ac-others-lasia>. Musicians Institute Concert Hall, 1655 N. McCadden Pl., Hollywood; Sat., Sept. 2, 4 p.m., free with required reservation. <https://www.jflalc.org/ac-others-lasia>.

1. Dancin' from Mexico

Just ahead of the real Mexican Independence Day (which is September 16, not Cinco de Mayo), Grandeza Mexicana Folk Ballet displays why it is one of SoCal's most popular folkloric troupes. Expect the troupe's signature meticulous footwork and exuberantly colored costumes as the ensemble celebrates director Jose Vences 25th anniversary with dances that capture Mexico's varied regions. Known for careful research into the regional cultures underlying his choreography, Vences unveils a new work for this celebration. Although the troupe doesn't usually perform to live music, this anniversary event brings La Banda De Tlayacapan from Mexico to accompany the festivities. Ford Theatre, 2580 Cahuenga Blvd. East, Hollywood; Sat., Sept. 2, 8 p.m., $34-$54. <https://fordtheatres.org>.

Two SoCal dance troupes open this year's Laguna Dance Festival in conjunction with the area's First Thursday Art Walk. Kybele Dance Theater performs at the Laguna Art Museum while Entity Contemporary Dance can be found at Dawson Cole Fine Art with each troupe offering two shows during the evening. Next weekend the Festival swings into full gear with Paul Taylor Dance Company and British Columbia's Ballet BC. Full festival details at <http://LagunaDanceFestival.org>. Kybele Dance at Laguna Art Museum, 307 Cliff Dr., Laguna Beach; Entity Contemporary Dance at Dawson Cole Fine Art, 326 Glenneyre St., Laguna Beach; Thurs., Sept. 7, 6:30 & 7 p.m., free. <http://LagunaDanceFestival.org>.
