Earth Day is a Natural Thing

Rob Lang · Thursday, April 20th, 2017

Earth Day is this weekend. We all know that the holiday should be every day, I mean, how obvious is the need to clean up after yourself? Nevertheless, it's a good yearly reminder that we are a part of nature, and no matter how we try to control it, or kill it, we are the ones who wind up losing in the end.

Sometimes we aren't the ones with the best aim.

We need to be stewards of the planet, or it will be managed for us.

Teamwork!

So Earth Day isn't pointless—it's a good day. Unlike this, which is an example of a bad day (for the human):

Happy Earth Day!
