

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Eternal Light

Cultural Daily · Wednesday, January 16th, 2013

We fell in love with Cristóbal Vila when we saw his short film Inspirations. Now the Spanish filmmaker has released a new work, Lux Aeterna.

“I wanted to look into light from several points of view,” Vila told us. “It’s a powerful radiation emitted by the most distant stars in the universe, and also by our sun; light floods everywhere in nature, from the largest things to the smallest, creating interesting and beautiful effects. Humans always used light as a symbolic and spiritual element, and it is a physical phenomenon deeply studied by science.”

Vila set this film essay to music by Icelandic composer Jóhann Jóhannsson. Vila has incorporated a detailed discussion of light on his website, as well.

LUX AETERNA from Cristóbal Vila on Vimeo.

Full screen and volume up, please!

This entry was posted on Wednesday, January 16th, 2013 at 4:55 pm and is filed under Film. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.