Going to the Pointe

Ann Haskins · Wednesday, June 7th, 2023

Contemporary ballet flows deep in Beverly Hills, Butoh marks the season in Venice, flamenco in Hollywood and Los Feliz, ballet keeps the memory alive in Santa Monica and downtown, Hollywood fringes, more SoCal dance this busy week (June 9 to 15), and a peek at next week.

Live This Week

Drawing the LINES

The San Francisco-based contemporary dance company Alonzo King/LINES Ballet has an international reputation for the liquid, catlike qualities of its dancers and artistic director Alonzo King's distinctive blend of pointe shoe and contemporary ballet choreography known to morph in an instant from elegant to explosive. This visit, the company brings Deep River. The 2022 premiere marking the company's 40th anniversary prompted San Francisco Chronicle reviewer Rachel Howard to write "how these Black Christian spirituals could meld so naturally with dance imagery that suggests influences from both yogic philosophy and Islam, is a striking reminder of the universality King has reclaimed for ballet." The Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts, 9390 N. Santa Monica Blvd., Beverly Hills; Fri.-Sat., June 9-10, 7:30 pm, $39-$125. The Wallis.

Rising to a double challenge

The challenge of her first full-length ballet Memoryhouse already had been undertaken for her Barak Ballet when Melissa Barak assumed the additional challenge as the new artistic director of Los Angeles Ballet. Memoryhouse was folded into LAB's season under its new director and takes the stage this week. The title and much of the ballet's structure is drawn from British-German composer Max Richter's 2002 album. Barak kept the album's 18 tracks in order, retaining the electronic voices, sounds, and touches that are part of the original recording. Media material describes the work as an abstract consideration of World War II and particularly, the holocaust. At a time when the lies that fueled Nazi Germany are being shamelessly voiced again, such considerations remain sadly needed. Broad Stage, 1310 11th St., Santa Monica; Thurs.-Sat., June 15-17, 7:30 pm, $50-$75. BroadStage.
