Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Homage to Los Angeles

R. Daniel Foster · Wednesday, February 3rd, 2021

A few words about my latest art film — 1.5 minutes in length. The film is posted below.
Nearly 15 years ago while driving to my Los Feliz apartment, I spied an old lamppost on Hollywood Blvd. with a bunch of plastic bags caught in it, blowing wildly. Back home, I grabbed my video camera and drove back, spending a few hours filming the scene. Later that evening, I returned to film the lamppost for a night perspective.
I found the footage to be oddly compelling and strangely beautiful, but such video can languish – while nagging me to use it in some way. This past month, those shots found a home in a 1.5-minute art film I've created: Homage to Los Angeles.

Consider subscribing to my YouTube Channel. The link is in the upper right corner of the YouTube page or just click here.
My production website

This entry was posted on Wednesday, February 3rd, 2021 at 6:09 pm and is filed under Visual Art
You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments (RSS) feed. You can skip to the end and leave a response. Pinging is currently not allowed.