

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Liberated images ... strange images

Maurice Amiel · Wednesday, August 29th, 2018

Liberating strangeness

Strangeness is not something we usually go about making, although as the feature image shows, someone must have found the combination of a TV put out on the street and a tree stump putting out new shoots simply irresistible.

And just as irresistible was taking a photo of the strange combination although, metaphorically, one can easily see the message here: just as the tree stump put out new shoots maybe the TV will find new owner and continued use.

Strangeness does not signify meaninglessness but only an invitation to find meaning, by liberating oneself from standard perceptual schemes.

Liberated images of strangeness

The action is on the grass

Open ... for now

Duchampesque

More to come ...

Credit Maurice Amiel for all images.

[alert type=alert-white]Please consider making a tax-deductible donation now so we can keep publishing strong creative voices.[/alert]

This entry was posted on Wednesday, August 29th, 2018 at 11:56 pm and is filed under Photography. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can skip to the end and leave a response. Pinging is currently not allowed.

