LIFE AFTER BIRTH CELEBRATES 2 SUPERWOMEN AND A DOG

Carol Green · Wednesday, July 15th, 2020

✖ Two women – among many more – recently evidenced themselves as superwomen. Donald J. Trump's niece Mary wrote a page-turner biography of the so-called President warning the country about his lethal tendencies. Carmel Valley waitress and yoga teacher Gennica Cochran ousted a racist from the restaurant where she works standing up for an Asian family he was attacking. Her praise-worthy action has been viewed millions of times on the Internet and initiated his self-exploration and repentance. GoFundMe pages have been set up for her to build a yoga studio. And then there's the great double amputee war veteran Senator Tammy Duckworth who nailed Tucker Carlson to his own demeaning, misogynist cross. Not to mention my dog Wendy who walked on this page while the paint was still wet.
