Oladosu Michael Emerald: Three Poems

Inside Life

Inside, everyone is a great joy
Waiting to be born Prospecting everything in life is done

Inside life, no sweat no wealth is the theory Aggregate sudor concludes riches is the practical Diddum for needs is elusive

Inside life hope is lost Sons of darkness and vagabonds fust
The desire of good future for the youngsters is in the desert No pant No Benz they say Money leads them astray

Life in its natural state is very brutal
But it can be a living hell;fatal
When all wishes is not all we see

Inside life, arike is Haqim Abolaji's choice

Inside life
The only way to get rid of temptation
Is to yield to it.
Hmm..... inside life
All is vanity

Of What Use Is the Cry

Man's death is known at his birth.

Of what use is the cry,
to the beautiful memories to the tears and laughter
When we are no more?

Of what use is the cry
when the tears can't resurrect the dead?
Of what use is the cry
When we'll all die and sleep wickedly without caring to know about people's feeling.

Of what use is the cry
When we know that life is a general market in which we come to trade and at the end the reaper would knock us out and hold on our breath

Maybe the cry is just a lie to pretend as if we are immortals.

I'm beautifully clothed with pride.
I glow in the sun
I'm fragile
Whenever I visit couple of thorns, I got torn.
