The Blockchain Africa Conference 2022, which will be held on March 17 and 18, 2022, will be the eighth event in the Bitcoin Events series. It will bring together over 2,500 attendees from various cities and countries around the globe.

The event features a variety of panels and workshops that will focus on the latest developments in blockchain, its use cases and how it can be used for business. The conference will feature various panels and keynotes. There will also be several talks focused on the increasing demand for blockchain-related products in Africa.

Over 40 speakers have been added to the conference's agenda. Some of these include experts from various countries, regulators and blockchain companies. The event also features discussions on how blockchain technology can transform cross-border transactions in Africa.

The annual Blockchain Africa conferences were the first events to be held in the continent. They have been driving the conversation about the evolution of blockchain technology for the last eight years. The speakers at the conferences are experts in the field of blockchain technology. They will discuss how blockchain can help improve the efficiency of doing business in Africa.

Due to the increasing number of companies and institutions that are investing in blockchain technology, the Blockchain Africa Conference is the ideal place to discuss the current state of the industry in the continent. The goal of the conferences is to bring together the most prominent individuals and organizations in the blockchain industry to discuss how the technology can be used to solve various problems in Africa.

According to Sonya Kuhnel, the founder of Bitcoin Events, the goal of the conferences is to help accelerate the development of blockchain technology in Africa. The event is expected to attract various industries and organizations, such as banks, software development companies, venture capital firms and fintech firms. It will also provide attendees with an opportunity to network and share their knowledge.

About African Blockchain Conference

Over the years, the conferences have attracted thousands of attendees and featured over 230 speakers from various countries. The next edition of the event, which will be held in 2022, will feature a virtual conference for those to attend without having to spend time and money on travel
