Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Since We'll be Eating a lot of Poultry…

Rob Lang · Wednesday, November 23rd, 2016

It's Thanksgiving, and of course turkey is on everybody's mind. Well, instead of thinking so much about gobbling up the big gobbler on turkey day, how about if we consider what other birds around the US are eating?
Like the Bald Eagle:

In hard times, siblicide may be helpful for survival, but not necessarily the attitude of the species.

Or the Golden Eagle:

The jackrabbit has a point.

And of course, the ever-present Crows:

The crow is clearly a connoisseur.

Remember crows: say your prayers and eat your roadkill.

Enjoy your feast!
[alert type=alert-white]Please consider making a tax-deductible donation now so we can keep publishing strong creative voices.[/alert]

This entry was posted on Wednesday, November 23rd, 2016 at 1:00 pm and is filed under Comics
You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments (RSS) feed. You can skip to the end and leave a response. Pinging is currently not allowed.