Stepping Into a New Season

Ann Haskins · Wednesday, September 20th, 2023

Creek dancing in Culver City, mothers' perspectives in East LA, late summer dance in San Pedro, gender considerations in the Arts District, classical ballet in Glendale, dance and art in Santa Monica, benefit events to keep dancers dancing, a peek at next week (Sept. 29 to Oct. 4), and more SoCal dance as the new dance season gains steam.

Live This Week

Tale tellers

Gender is the topic as the storytellers at Invertigo Dance Theatre weave choreography, spoken word, media, and their ample contemporary dance skills to tell tales of trans, nonbinary, gender-nonconforming, and intersex communities from around the world in Walk the Walk. LA Dance Project, 2245 E. Washington Blvd., Downtown Arts District; Fri.-Sat., Sept. 22-23, 8 pm, $15-$50, Donate for tickets.

The view from her

As it nears a half century under the leadership of artistic director/founder Gema Sandoval, Danza Floricanto/USA is recognized as one of the premiere local folkloric ensembles. In addition to its seasonal traditions around the Day of the Dead and the Christmas Posada, recent years marked the opening of the company's cultural and performance center in Boyle Heights. Sometimes overlooked is the company's explorations of other dance genres and the cultural diaspora. In its latest, Mujer: Ayer, Hoy Y Siempre-Woman: Yesterday, Today and Always, the 12-member company employs indigenous African and contemporary dance along with Mexican folkloric to consider women's perspectives on the home, the world and their place in society across three generations of Chicanas. Floricanto Center For The Performing Arts, 2900 Calle Pedro Infante, Boyle Heights; Sat., Sept. 23, 7:30 pm, $45. Danza Floricanto/USA.

So long summer

Somehow, the annual San Pedro ? Festival of the Arts always seems to mark the end of the summer outdoor festivals. Like the final display at a fireworks show, producer Louise Reichlin has assembled an impressive 20 dance companies to send off the summer with a broad sampling of SoCal dance. This year's line up includes Jazz Spectrum Dance Company, Vanessa Kanamoto, Alice Lousen & Co., Jose Costas Contempo Ballet, Katrina Ji, Katie Marshall, Re:borN Dance Interactive, Degas Dance Studio, Megill & Company, Kairos Dance Company, Arpana Dance Company, Santa Barbara Community College, Maya Kell Abrams, Vidushi. Sumangala Vijaykumar Varun, Southern California Dance Theatre, Passion Flamenca Los Angeles, AkomiDance, Sahlala Dancers, and host company Louise Reichlin & Dancers. Peck Park, 560 N. Western Ave., San Pedro; Sat., Sept. 23, 1-4 pm, free. San Pedro ? Festival of the Arts.

Rain check

Earlier this month, an atypical summer rain forced the postponement of Viver Brasil's family friendly performance Celebrating Samba. The rescheduled performance is this weekend promising Afro-Brazilian dance and live music. As one of the only dance events at this venue this summer, the company deserves this additional chance to show its splendid dancers. The Ford Theatre, 2850 Cahuenga Blvd. East, Hollywood; Sun., Sept. 24, 10:30 am, $10, children free with adult ticket. The Ford Theatre.

Classical samples

Opening its 2023-2024 season, Pacific Ballet Dance Theatre's A Ballet Spectacular brings a program drawn from a half dozen beloved ballets including extended excerpts from Don Quixote. The Russian pianist Mikhail Korzhev provides live music for two dances including the high-flying Spring Waters. Armenian composer Aram Katchaturian's Masquerade Waltz showcases choreography by artistic director Natasha Middleton and Katchaturian's music returns for the spirited Saber Dance and Lezhinka from the ballet Gayane. The Alex Theatre, 216 N. Brand Blvd., Glendale, Sun., Sept. 24, 5 pm, $55-$100. Pacific Ballet Dance Theatre or Alex Theatre.

Dancing the circle

Taking its title from the Ukrainian word for “circle”, the KOLO Dance Show: *The Spirit of Modern Ukraine brings ballroom dancers, animation, and digital art from Ukraine. All set to an original soundtrack. Ballroom dancers include Latin dancers Mykhailo Bilopukhov and Anastasiia Shchypilina, Smooth dancers Tykhon Zhyvkov and Yana Zhyvkov, and Serhiy Averkov and Olena Barna. The Alex Theatre, 216 N. Brand Blvd., Glendale, Sat., Sept. 23, 5 pm, $55-$165. Alex Theatre.

Dancing on a clean creek

The latest from those ever-inventive, site-specific folks at Heidi Duckler Dance is Ebb & Flow@The Creek. This collaborative event on Heal the Bay's Coastal Clean-Up Day, combines a clean-up effort along a Culver City portion of Ballona Creek led by Ballona Creek Renaissance followed by HDD dancing along the creek for the clean up volunteers. A chance to clean the creek before the trash flows into the Ocean and doing good comes with a site-specific performance chaser. Details at the website. Ballona Creek at the base of the Julian Dixon Library, 4975 Overland Ave., Culver City; Sat., Sept. 23, 9:30 am (clean-up with Heal the Bay Coastal Clean Up Day), performances at 10 & 11 am, free with reservation at Heidi Duckler Dance.

Folks with words

Paying tribute to the life of the hip-hop emcee/lyricist, 7NMS / Marjani Forté-Saunders and Everett Saunders bring their latest, Prophet: The Order of the Lyricist. Forté-Saunders is the choreographer/performer and Saunders is the composer/sound designer. Developed over four years of research, the project also produced a film version commissioned by Jacob's Pillow that involved D. Sabela Grimes as movement composer/sound archivist, Meena Murugesan as filmmaker/media designer, and photographer Marc Winston. Friday's performance includes a post-performance talk with the 7NMS creative team moderated by hip-hop musicologist Rahaman "Kil" Kilpatrick. REDCAT at Disney Hall, 631 W. 2nd St., downtown; Thurs.-Fri., Sept. 21-22, 8:30 pm, Sat., Sept. 23, 1 pm, $30, $24 students. REDCAT.
