Tracing the Origins of Tongits

Though the exact origin story of Tongits remains somewhat uncertain, most agree that the game first appeared in the northern provinces of the Philippines in the late 1980s or early 1990s. It is believed to have been influenced by other rummy-style card games, such as the well-known American game Gin Rummy and the Chinese game Mahjong. The objective in Tongits is to create matching sets of cards, strategically discard unwanted ones, and avoid penalties to outsmart opponents.

In its early days, Tongits was a game reserved for gatherings of friends and family. It quickly became a hit during social events like local fiestas and informal get-togethers. What distinguishes Tongits from many other card games is its delicate balance of luck and strategy, requiring players to plan moves ahead while adapting to the cards they are dealt. This unique combination made it a favorite among many Filipino households.
