In October 2015, an adolescent patient suffering from bipolar disorder was physically and sexually assaulted by another patient. The patient was violently attacked on their first day at the hospital and needed emergency medical treatment.

After getting emergency attention and returning to the hospital, their 44-year-old roommate, who suffered from a developmental disability, raped the patient. According to the patient's family, this incident severely affected the victim's mental health.

2020 Lawsuit by Former Male Patient

The hospital had knowingly placed the patient in danger of being victimized by someone with a violent background. According to the claim and reports, the attacker attempted to force the victim to perform oral sex. After refusing, the attacker tied the victim up and then proceeded to molest them for ten minutes. The perpetrator later pleaded guilty to aggravated assault.
