Tattoos, fashion, and dance intertwine in LA Arts District; revered choreographer goes solo in Westwood; three days of choreography in Lincoln Heights; Brazilian dance in Sierra Madre; contemporary ballet in Irvine, Santa Barbara, Palm Desert, Orange, and Downtown LA; tap in Brea; French dancers join in at University Park; flamenco in the Hollywood Hills; a dancing food truck in Culver City; more SoCal dance this busy week, plus a peek at next week.

Live This Week

Learned and still learning

A revered force as a dancer, choreographer, and teacher, David Roussèvre and his company David Roussèvre/REALITY embody fearlessness. In his latest, Becoming Daddy AF, Roussèvre faces off with aging and confronts universal and personal issues absorbed into his body—the shattering joy of unconditional love, tumultuous wrestlings with HIV, the despairing loss of a husband of 26 years, and other truths drawn from 35 years of dancemaking and 65 years of living. Roussèvre's stature inside and outside of the LA dance world is suggested by in the long list of national institutions co-commissioning this work including CAP UCLA, National Center for Choreography—Akron, MASS MoCA, Kelly Strayhorn Theater, National Performance Network, and the James A. Doolittle Endowment. UCLA Nimoy Theatre, 1262 Westwood Blvd., Westwood; Fri.-Sat., Oct. 17-18, 8 pm, $38.08-$48.67. David Rousseve.

Tit for Tats

Tattoos, fashion, and the human body have been on choreographer Laurie Sefton's mind for three years. Now, the dancers of Laurie Sefton Creates share where that thinking has led in How We Wear Our Art. Sefton developed the new work in collaboration with tattoo artist Reiley Johnson, fashion designer Sophie Isabella Popham, sculptor/set designer Bryan Curt Kostors, and composer Andy Bright to bring the work to life. Dancers are Carmen Callahan, Ishaun Jackson-Moaney, Jolyn Lambey, Rose Lindblom, Harry Louis (10/18), Zachary Medina (10/17), Kyle Schrader (10/18), Jane Zogbi, and understudy Kira Bartholomew. Also, there's a post show talk with the artists. LA Dance Project, 2245 E. Washington Blvd., Downtown Arts District; Fri.-Sat., Oct. 17-18, 8 pm, $45. Laurie Sefton Creates.

And they make dances

Three nights of performances, a choreography competition, and a party fill the weekend as Brockus Project celebrates its 15th Anniversary with Past-Present-Future. The festivities also celebrate the multiple contributions of choreographer/producer/educator and all around instigator of good trouble, Deborah Brockus. Opening night showcases work by choreographers who got their start in residencies at Brockus Project Studios including Alondra Perez, Charlotte k Smith, Tashara Gavin-Moorehead, Gretchin Ackerman, Eliezer Rabelo. Jill Gregory, Maryam Malmir,

Sean Greene, also Brockus' second company. Saturday's main event spotlights BrockusRED & Friends (Deborah Brockus (BrockusRED), Ken Morris, Maura Townsend Dance, Charlotte K. Smith, Sean Greene) followed by a celebration party. Sunday afternoon boasts a choreography competition with the audience voting the winners from among Mia Moraru, Aysha Cunningham, Margaux Gex, Emilio Castellon, Marissa Mahoney, Beth Huelsenbeck, Anisa Johnson, Jordan Diamond, Jesse Ocampo (PaperCrane Project), Hannah Joo, Elaina Greenawalt, Emily & Tanz Tanz Revolution. Brockus Project Studios, 618B Moulton Ave., Lincoln Heights; Fri., Oct. 17, 8:30 pm, Sat., Oct. 18, 6 pm, Sun., Oct. 19, 7 pm, $20. Brockus Project.

All that glitters

After last month's world premiere at Australia's Brisbane Dance Festival, SoCal gets the U.S. premiere of LA Dance Project's Gems Trilogy. Choreographer Benjamin Millepied combined three earlier ballets—Reflections (2013, with music by David Lang), Hearts & Arrows (2014, with music by Philip Glass), and On the Other Side (2016, more music by Philip Glass), reworking aspects of each, particularly the last one. The endeavor pays homage to George Balanchine's ballet Jewels which was inspired and underwritten by high-end jeweler Van Cleef and Arpels, also a major sponsor of LADP. New York sees Gems next spring, but LA sees it first. The Wallis Center for the Performing Arts, 390 N. Santa Monica Blvd., Beverly Hills; Thurs.-Sat., Oct. 23-25. 7:30 pm, $42.90-$108.90. Encore!

When Viver Brasil Dance Company brought its Afro-Brazilian Rezas e Folhas to this venue last year, audience response was so strong, this return performance was booked. Known for its high energy, effusive performances, and blending experimental choreography with traditional dance, the company had audiences dancing out of the theatre last time, and likely once again. Sierra Madre Playhouse, 87 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre; Sat., Oct. 18, 7:30 pm, $12-$35. Viver Brasil.

Thank you for your service

Continuing its impressive work with military veterans, Diavolo offers performances of Escape. Vets and dancer/gymnasts move inside, outside, over and through the often outsized architectural structures that are signature parts of Jacques Heim's choreography. This time up close and personal in the intimate studio setting. Proceeds will support ongoing military and educational programs. L'Espace Diavolo Studios, 616 Moulton Ave., Lincoln Heights; Fri.-Sat., 8 pm, Sun., 6 pm, thru Sun., Nov. 23, 6 pm, $51.74-$93.14. Diavolo — Escape.

Those tragic teens

The Santa Barbara Symphony and State Street Ballet open their seasons with a joint concert. The symphony takes the stage for Shostakovich's Festive Overture and Rachmaninoff's Symphonic Dances, then moves to the pit to play Prokofiev's score and the dancers take over for ballet Romeo & Juliet Suite with choreography by Nilas Martins and Megan Philipp. Granada Theatre, 1214 State St., Santa Barbara; Sat., Oct. 18, 7:30 pm, Sun., Oct. 19, 3 pm, $45-$198. Franco/LA collaborations

Despite the event's unwieldy title, City of Angels/City of Light: A Transatlantic Dance Performance and Q&A, is one of several events coming out of a landmark collaboration between USC Kaufman Dance and the prestigious Paris Conservatory. This program previews work from Leïla Ka and Bintou Dembélé, two young French choreographers known for drawing on both street and contemporary dance styles. Each dancemaker will present some of their work performed by undergraduate students from USC Kaufman and students from the Paris Conservatory. A post-performance discussion will be facilitated by Muriel Maffre who wears hats as USC Kaufman faculty as well the Paris Conservatory's Director of Dance. USC Glorya Kaufman International Dance Center, Large Performance Space, 849 34th St., University Park; Thurs.-Fri., Oct. 16-17, 7:30 pm, free w/reservation at USC City of Angels/City of Light.
