Watching Video-Gamers in 'Immersion'

Majestic Imaging · Wednesday, March 13th, 2013

Slack faces.
Dead eyes.
Sounds of bone-crunching violence.
Artist Robbie Cooper's Immersion project began as a quest to capture people's faces as they respond to video games, movies, and YouTube videos. Now Cooper is opening up the project, via a Kickstarter campaign, actively inviting anyone who wants to participate to turn on their webcams and become a part of this exhibition.
How do you watch?
